WELCOME TO BAR HARBOR

This quaint, New England fishing port charms with a walkable downtown lined with Victorian mansions—a nod to America's Gilded Age when names like Astor, Ford, Morgan, Rockefeller, Carnegie and Vanderbilt transformed the island with their "summer cottages." Surrounding the storybook neighborhoods is Acadia National Park, the 47,000-acre source of pride throughout the state. It's home to North America's highest point on the eastern seaboard: Cadillac Mountain at 1,530 feet. It also marks the spot as the first place in the country to see the sunrise each morning. For the foodies, dining on lobster here is an absolute must! It doesn't get any fresher than from these cool, coastal waters.
